Ute Indian Full Bloods Choose Tribal Leaders

Four new full blood committeemen today lit council fires to resume business of the Ute Indian Tribe on the Uintah and Ouray Reservation, Fort Duchesne, Utah, after being elected to office by the largest turnout of voters in the history of the Ute Indian tribe. Leaderless since April 5th when the 1814 members of the Ute Tribe were divided into two autonomous groups known as the full bloods and mixed bloods, some 1360 full blood Ute Indians chose 24-year-old Thomas G. Appah, Harvey Natchees of World War II fame, veteran of 8 years prior service in Ute Tribal Councils, Russell Cuch and Wallace Tabbee, son of John Tabee, beloved Uncompahgre leader who recently passed away.

Accenting youth and education, the new officials were sworn into office by John O. Crow, superintendent of the Uintah and Ouray Reservation. They join Ouray McCook and Jason Cuch in forming the Uintah and Ouray Tribal Business Council which is the governing body of the Ute Tribe. INSPECT URANIUM DEVELOPMENT SITES — Pictured above are officials and employees of the Sandia Mining and Developing Co., who made a recent inspection tour of their holdings on South Myton Bench. Standing are William DeMik, president; Murray A. Kewitz, legal counselor; Nathan Wechsler, financial adviser; Einer C. Erickson, geologist in charge of development; and Dudly Bray, airplane pilot. Kneeling are, Klaus W. Groeger, liason officer, and Theo N. Doerrie, property consultant.

Officials Of Sandia Mining Co. Offer Hope For Uranium Claims

Large Vein Of High Grade Ore Found Which Spurs Activity; U. S. Mineral Map Lists Area As Possible

Officials of the Sandia Mining and Developing Co., from Washington, D. C. and Albuquerque, New Mexico, were in the Basin last Thursday, April 19, to look over their uranium claims located on the South Myton Bench area, which are in the process of being developed.

The editor of the Roosevelt Standard-Uintah Basin Record spent a few hours going over the claims of the rapidly growing mining and developing company and saw first-hand some of the claims that have built up considerable hope and enthusiasm among the officers and stockholders in the company. Three major locations are being developed. They are Canary Bird, Eagle's Nest and Eureka claims.

According to Einer C. Erickson, geologist, who is in charge of the development work which is being done by M.R.A.C., Inc., of Ruth, Nevada, they have uncovered a large deposit that shows a high grade test. One portion of the vein measured nearly 34 inches thick and decreased to about 8 to 10 inches. Just how long it is, cannot be determined until further developing is done.

President Was Here

Heading the delegation of officials was the president of Sandia, Willim DeMik whose home is in Washington, D. C. Also in the party were the financial adviser, Nathan Wechsler; legal adviser, Murray A. Kivitz, both of Washington, and Theo N. Doerrie of New Mexico, property consultant and investor in the company.

Mr. Wechsler, who was speaking for the company in an interview with the officials, expressed a great deal of hope and optimism as to the future of the South Myton Bench area. "We firmly believe this area will develop into one of the largest, low-production cost, producing uranium areas in the state of Utah, and this includes the Colorado Plateau where the Moab and Monticello fields are being developed," Mr. Wechsler said.

"We intend to go the limit in finding out what we have here, and if it proves to be what we hope for, there could easily be a big uranium boom start in this area," he continued.

Another note of encouragement Mr. Wechsler left on his visit to the South Myton area was a statement that indicated the Mineral Sources Map of the United States (Series MPR-16), has listed the South Myton Bench area as one of the most basic areas in the west and predicted some high-grade producing uranium fields would be discovered and developed in the not too-distant future. "The eyes of the uranium world are turned our way, and will be watching very attentively our progress in this development project," Mr. Wechsler stated.

Growing Rapidly

Sandia Mining and Developing Co. recently acquired controlling interest of the Frontier Mining Corp. and Universal Uranium Corp., who have been operating on the Colorado Plateau the last 18 months. They are also in the process of acquiring six other companies who are in production of various base metals in various parts of the country.

Sandia who has diversified interests in eastern and western states, is a stock company operating under a New Mexico char-

PARENTS URGED TO HAVE PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN CHECKED

Parents should consider the advantages of having pre-school examinations made now in preparation for the 1956-57 school term, in order to avoid crowding doctors' offices for this required examination later in the summer, states Fay Pope, Duchesne county public health nurse.

Forms necessary for the doctor to complete are on file in most doctor's offices.

Children who are enrolling in kindergarten, or first graders who did not attend kindergarten the current term, as well as 4th, 7th and 10th graders must have this examination prior to the September opening of the 1956-57 school year.

Know Your Schools . . . .

How Can We Obtain A Continuing Public Interest In Education? . . .

This is a report of another one of the important local education problems which were included on the agenda of the Duchesne County Rural Education Conference. The answers to four specific questions were sought by the participants in Section A of the conference. Here are the results of their thinking on these questions:

1. Is there a constructive public attitude toward our schools? (A) If yes, how is this attitude expressed? (B) If no, how can it be obtained?

In answering these questions the groups felt that the public, in general, was pleased with its schools. However, it was felt that there was a great deal of apathy toward active participation in solving the problems of education.

To stimulate the public to become more concerned and active in school business it was suggested: (1) That the pubilc be kept informed about school business and school issues. The pubilc has a right to know what is going on and what problems the school district is facing. Church groups, clubs, P-TA, radio, newspapers, etc., should be utilized to get information to the public. (2) That more parent's days be held when parents may come to school to learn what the school is doing. Programs on these days should be planned to acquaint the parents with what the school is teaching and methods used. (3) P-TA meetings should deal with important school issues. P-TA organizations should be formed for Elementary and Secondary schools. The P-TA should become the organization that effectively represents the parents of the county in school matters.

2. How can the various organizations within the county work for a continuing public interest in education?

It was felt that at times some organizations do things that strain relations between the public and the schools. Some organizations hoping to stimulate worthwhile activities in the schools sponsor various kinds of contests. Care should be taken by these groups to follow through fully on any such projects.

It was suggested by the conference that essay, poster, orations and other such organizations sponsored contests be cleared through the superintendent before the school year begins and then if approved these could be planned to be included in the curriculum.

Several ways for organizations to be more helpful to schools were suggested by the conference participants. Some of these are: Book fairs, ground beautification projects, purchase playground equipment, donations of books to school libraries.

3. What is thought of the method used last year for publishing the annual financial report of the district and the "Know Your Schools" articles as means of keeping the public informed about the school?

The conference groups generally commended the information that was presented last year along with the published list of vouchers issued by the district. The teachers in the conference did not favor the practice of publishing each teacher's salary.

It was felt that the articles, "Know Your Schools", have done much to inform the ctizenry and that more could be done along this line. Care should be taken to keep the language of these articles understandable to all readers. Statements should be simplified and clarified and written in an interesting manner in order to have them read widely. These articles should be written by administrators, teachers and lay citizens in an effort to get a cross-section of opinion and interest in these articles.

The conference participants felt that the public has a right to know what is going on and that every means should be used to create an interest on the part of the public in its schools and to keep them informed.

struction or any of the projects in this county will be awarded for five or six years; that construction time is expected to require five years or more.

First construction project in Duchesne County is the Rock Creek Tunnel to the Strawberry Valley, Mr. Neeley said. This tunnel project is expected to require 12 years for completion. Intake for this tunnel is at the Upper Still Water reservoir site.

Mr. Neeley advised, in a non-official capacity, that Duchesne begin now to make preparations for housing and other facilities and conveniences for the influx of workers and their families, in order to be ready to handle the population when actual construction begins and to take care of housing for the pre-construction crews of surveyors, engineers, drillers, etc.

When asked about a change of route for U. S. Highway 40, the engineer stated that was out of his department and suggested checking with the state road commission on that score.

A Day At Camp Is Explained By Scout Heads

"Scouts and Explorers at the 1956 High Uinta Scout Camp will find fun and adventure at every hour of the day," is the opening sentence on page 3 of the 1956 High Uinta Camp bulletin to be distributed to all Scouts and Explorers of the Uintah Basin during the next seven days.

A typical day at camp will include 7:00 reveile, 7:15 flag ceremony and roll call, 7:30 breakfast and camp clean-up, followed by the 8:45 formal camp inspection. Last year interest was high as Roosevelt Fourth Troop 751 won the Honor Camp award as a result of the daily camp inspection.

Two instructional periods from 9:45 to 10:45, and from 10:55 to 12:00 each morning will help the boys prepare to pass their second class, first class, and merit badges while at camp.

Dinner at noon will be followed by clean-up and siesta period until 2 p.m. when the fun activities begin. At 3:30 the program will shift to scoutcraft demonstrations and contests.

Formal person inspection will be each evening at 5:30 p.m. followed by retreat, supper, and free time until campfire at 8 p.m. Taps will sound at 9:30 p.m.

Flag ceremonies this year are being planned so as to make each boy appreciate he is an American as he sees the new-large 10-foot flag hoisted and lowered.

★ UTE TRIBE PICKS LEADERS
flict and a former student at the Brigham Young University, Thomas Appah is the youngest councilman ever elected to the tribal council. As the first American soldier of World War II to enter Berlin, Germany, and a recipient of many awards and honors for his outstanding soldiering, Harvey Natchees also serves as associate judge on the local tribal court. A Marine Corps veteran of World War II, Russell Cuch has served two four-year terms through the great reorganizing period of the Ute Tribe and was the vice-chairman during his last term. He did not seek election after his term expired two years ago in order to devote his time to farming and ranch business.

Follows Father

A game warden for the Tribe, Wallace Tabbee, follows the footsteps of his father, John Tabbee, the Uncompahgre leader who sparked the drive to separate the mixed blood Utes from the full blood Indians.

In the process of developing a long-range economic, social and cultural program, the Ute Indians requested legislation which was enacted into Public Law 671 by the 83rd Congress in August, 1954. This law provides for the separation of the two groups, division of assets, and termination of federal supervision over some 490 mixed blood Utes in a period of five years. It is expected that the mixed blood Utes will be integrated with the citizens of Utah at the end of the termination period while the full blood Utes will enter into a period of intensive rehabilitation program aimed at making them self-supporting and independent at some future time.

After a period of organizational activity, the mixed blood Utes will hold an election on June 2nd to choose officers to a newly-formed holding corporation.

Plea Goes Out For Aid In Ground Observer Corps

"America needs you in the Ground Observer Corps," President Dwight Eisenhower, stresses. Quote: "The potential of modern military offense is such that a surprise raid against this country could cause tremendous casualties.

"Our military defense is aware of this possiblity. Air Force interceptor planes and Army anti-aircraft batteries are designed to repel such an attack. . . But—if that attack ever comes — WARNING MUST COME THROUGH IN TIME.

"Citizen volunteer plane spotters —ground observers—play a vital role in providing the necessary warning.

"Already some 300,000 civilian Americans are contributing to the job of guarding our ramparts. I salute these Ground Observers for their patience, the perserverance, their patriotism. But the job calls for twice their number to man these vital posts. Will you serve your country for two hours a week?" — end of quote.

The Ground Observance Corps is working in Duchesne to get a local tower erected and in operation, but it will need the support of the citizens here in order to accomplish this. Myton has had their tower completed and on duty 24 hours around the clock for better than five weeks now.

A meeting will be called in Duchesne in the very near future, to discuss this issue and to get this started in our city. Watch for this announcement and give your support. Remember: "A surprise air raid against this country could cause tremenduous casualties."

Volunteer civilian plan spotters can help provide early warnings; several hundred thousands patriotic citizens are now serving in the Ground Observation Corps; over a million volunteers are urgently needed. WILL YOU SERVE A FEW HOURS A WEEK?
